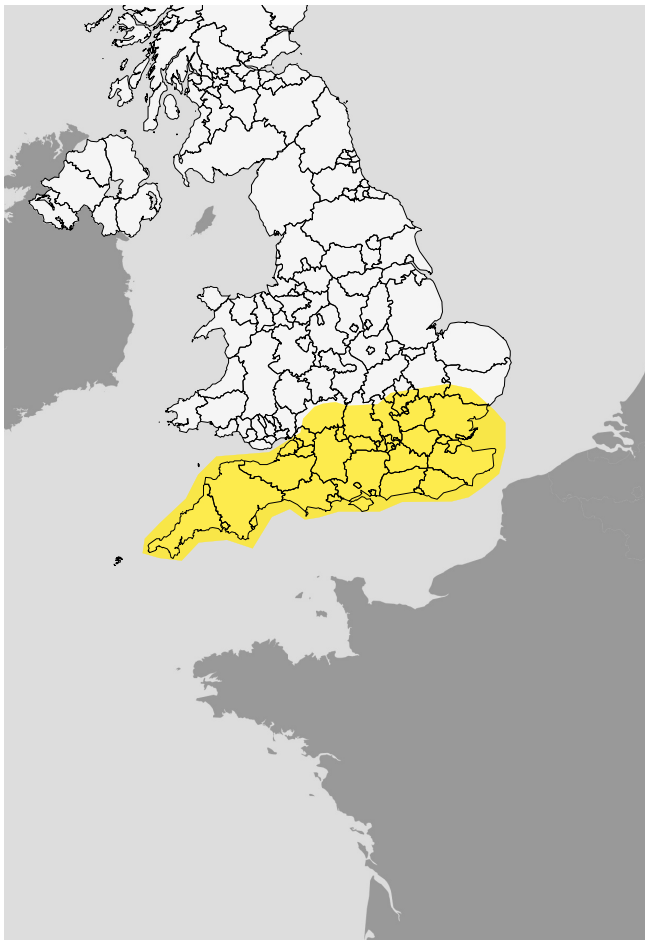
Yellow warning
Rain

Between
08:51 Sun 5 Jan 2025 and
09:00 Mon 6 Jan 2025



Further heavy rainfall may lead to some transport disruption in places.

What to expect

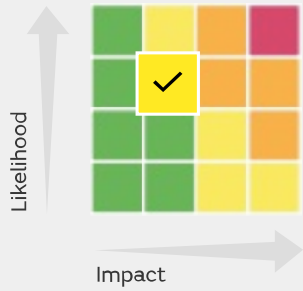
- Bus and train services probably affected with journey times taking longer
- Spray and flooding on roads probably making journey times longer
- Flooding of a few homes and businesses is possible

Further details

Further spells of rain, heavy at times, through the course of Sunday evening and overnight into Monday morning, will bring the potential for some difficult travelling conditions and perhaps some localised surface water flooding.

Through this period, a further 10-20 mm of rain could fall quite widely, with perhaps 30-40 mm in a few locations, most likely across southwest England and the West Country.

Rain, perhaps with a little wet snow on its back edge, will clear to the east through Monday morning.



✓ Medium likelihood of low impacts

What should I do?

Give yourself the best chance of avoiding delays by checking road conditions if driving, or bus and train timetables, amending your travel plans if necessary.

People cope better with power cuts when they have prepared for them in advance. It's easy to do; consider gathering torches and batteries, a mobile phone power pack and other essential items.

Be prepared for weather warnings to change quickly: when a weather warning is issued, the Met Office recommends staying up to date with the weather forecast in your area.

Check if your property could be at risk of flooding. If so, consider preparing a flood plan and an emergency flood kit.

Reason for update

Heavy rain at times overnight and at first on Monday morning, this falling onto saturated ground, with warning area now extended further north and east.
